BRIEF HISTORY OF THE BOSTON LATIN SCHOOL

The oldest public school in America, with a continuous existence, is the Boston Latin School. The School was founded April 23, 1635,* by the Town of Boston, antedating Harvard College by more than a year, and in April, 1935, celebrated its tercentenary with appropriate exercises.

The establishment was due in great measure to the influence of the Reverend John Cotton, who sought to establish in the new world a school like the Free Grammar School of Boston, England, in which Latin and Greek were taught.

The first school was in the home of the Master, Philemon Pormort.

In August, 1636, Daniel Maude** was chosen to assist him. When, in 1638, Pormort was obliged to leave Boston because of his adherence to the liberal doctrines of Anne Hutchinson, Maude became Master. He conducted the school in his own home till about 1643.

From the first years the town assigned the rents of Deer, Long and Spectacle Islands to the support of the school; in addition it was voted, in August, 1645, "to allow forever fifty pounds to the Master, and an house, and thirty pounds to an usher."

Of Maude's successor, John Woodbridge, little is known, except that he is supposed to have been the first minister at Andover and that he remained in office for approximately one year.

In 1650, Robert Woodmansey became the schoolmaster with a salary of "fifty pounds a year." He was followed by the famous colonial poet and physician, Benjamin Tompson, in 1667.

On December 29, 1670, the celebrated Ezekiel Cheever was invited to become Head Master, and Tompson was asked to remain as his Assistant. Cheever accepted, but Tompson left to take Cheever's former position in Charlestown. Cheever was fifty-six years old when he accepted the position. He died while in office, on August 21, 1708. Cotton Mather, the renowned divine, preached the funeral oration, in which he said, "We generally concur in acknowledging that New England has never known a better teacher." Cheever's reputation was great throughout the colonies, for he had written the famous "Accidence," which was the accepted Latin Grammar.

Nathaniel Williams, the first pupil to become Head Master, succeeded Cheever in 1708. In 1709, the master's salary was raised to one hundred pounds a year and the usher was still supplied at the town's expense.

In 1734, Williams resigned and John Lovell, his Assistant, was appointed to the vacancy, to become "the pride of Boston's parents and the terror of its youth."

In 1760, James Lovell, the Head Master's son, was appointed usher. He was an ardent patriot, whereas his father was a strong loyalist. They taught from desks at opposite ends of the schoolroom; and, voicing opposite political convictions, they typified many a Boston family in those trying times.

In the winter of 1774-75 the boys of the Latin School were accustomed to bring their sleds and, as soon as school was done, to coast down Beacon Street, across Tremont and down School Street. General Haldimand,* commanding the British troops under General Gage, lived on School Street, and his servant cut up the coast and put ashes on it. "The lads made a muster" — probably of the first class — "and chose a committee to wait upon the General, who admitted them, and heard their complaint, which was couched in very genteel terms, complaining that their fathers before 'em had improved it as a coast from time immemorial," etc. He ordered his servant to repair the damage, saying that he had trouble enough with Boston men, and wouldn't have any with Boston boys. He "acquainted the Governor with the affair, who observed that it was impossible to beat the notion of Liberty out of the people, as it was rooted in 'em FROM THEIR CHILDHOOD."**

On the morning of April 19, 1775, occurred one of the most dramatic episodes in the history of the School, when John Lovell angrily announced, "War's begun and school's done; deponite libros." When the British evacuated Boston, in March, 1776, both the Lovells sailed with Lord Howe to Halifax, N. S.; the father as Howe's guest, the son as his prisoner. Shortly afterwards James was exchanged and later became a delegate to the Continental Congress. John Lovell died at Halifax, in 1778.

For admission to the School, during Lovell's regime, it was necessary to read a few verses from the Bible. Each of the six or seven classes of the School sat at different benches. The subjects studied were Latin and Greek and "the elementary subjects." The morning session of the School started at seven o'clock in summer and eight in winter, and ended at eleven. School resumed at one o'clock in the afternoon and ran until five. After either the eleven o'clock hour or the five o'clock hour, or after both, the pupils attended a writing school near by.

On Thursdays the School was dismissed at ten o'clock, in order that the pupils might have the opportunity of attending the "Thursday Lecture" — another heritage from Boston, England.

School was resumed under Samuel Hunt, who ruled — with some difficulty — till 1805. He was succeeded by William Bigelow, who, after nine years of still rougher going, also resigned.

Benjamin Apthorp Gould, appointed Head Master in 1814 while still a senior at Harvard, restored order and scholarship to the School. Many features of the Latin School of to-day — amongst them the "misdemeanor mark" — had their beginnings under Gould. He began the practice of declamation, which continues to this day. He made the beginnings of a library. He issued regular reports of scholarship to the parents and placed squarely on the latter the responsibility for the pupils' conduct.

Gould resigned in 1828 to enter business, and was succeeded by his assistant, Frederic Percival Leverett, the author of the famous Leverett's Latin Lexicon. Leverett resigned in 1831 to become head of a private school.

Leverett's successor, Charles Knapp Dillaway, was in office until 1836, when ill health obliged him to resign.

Epes Sargent Dixwell, who succeeded Dillaway, had been a Master at the English High School. The School owes much to Dixwell, for during his term of fifteen years he founded The Boston Latin School Association and made the school library a reality. While Dixwell was Head Master, Edward Everett Hale became an usher (1839) and continued in the office for three years. Dixwell resigned in 1851. Francis Gardner, one of the most renowned men of Boston in the middle nineteenth century, was his successor. He edited the famous series of Latin School Text-books. A rugged, forthright character, he made both friends and enemies. During the last six years of his headmastership, an absurdly ambitious curriculum was imposed on the School, aiming at "general culture." He opposed this vigorously but unsuccessfully. An estimate of Gardner can be obtained from these words of Wendell Phillips, his classmate: "He was, from mere boyhood and life long, eminently a just man, only claiming fair play, and more than willing to allow it to others. I never knew the time, even in his boyhood, when he did not detest or despise a sham." He died in 1876, the first Head Master to die in office since Ezekiel Cheever. It was during his headmastership that Phillips Brooks served for a year as usher in the School.

Augustine Milton Gay was chosen his successor; but he lived only a few months after his appointment.

Dr. Moses Merrill was appointed Gay's successor and continued in the office until 1901. He died shortly after leaving office. His contribution to the School was the reorganization of the curriculum on a sane, modern basis. There have been few changes since that time. During his lifetime he was looked up to as a man of high character and strong moral influence.

Arthur Irving Fiske became Head Master in 1902. One of the ablest scholars in these parts, especially in Greek, he was loved and respected by his pupils. He ruled without friction. He was at all times courteous, the perfect type of the scholar and gentleman. He resigned in 1910 and died the same year.

Henry Pennypacker was selected as his successor. Mr. Pennypacker brought to the office of Head Master, not only the mind of the scholar, but the rugged personality of the athlete. By those who came in contact with Henry Pennypacker, he was recognized as a man's man. He resigned in 1920 to become Chairman of the Committee on Admissions at Harvard. His work there made him a figure of national importance, until his death early in 1934.

Patrick Thomas Campbell, '89, the first graduate of the Latin School to sit in the Head Master's chair since the death of Dr. Gardner, succeeded Mr. Pennypacker in 1920. His kind and firm rule won the respect and love of all the boys who came in contact with him. The enrollment doubled during his consulship. In spite of this rapid growth, the School for four years in succession, 1925 to 1928, obtained the highest average in examinations for admission to College, thereby securing permanent possession of the trophy offered by the Harvard chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. In 1929, Mr. Campbell was chosen Assistant Superintendent of Schools and, in 1931, was elected Superintendent of the Boston Public Schools, a position which he held until his death on February 12, 1937.

Joseph Lawrence Powers, '96, a Master in the School for twenty-three years was appointed Mr. Campbell's successor in 1929. Soft-spoken, unhurried, courteous but firm, Dr. Powers exerted an incalculable influence for nearly half a century. Through depression and war he sustained the School's historic pace. He was an energetic champion of the economic welfare of the Masters, and from his retirement in 1948 until his death December 1, 1955, he was devotedly interested in the prosperity of the school and the Alumni.

George Leonard McKim, '18 succeeded Dr. Powers in 1948. During Mr. McKim's tenure of office, the School received a great amount of fine, country-wide publicity. National magazines reported the methods and standards of the School in a very favorable light. That the commendations were justified, is best shown by the performance of the boys of the School in the National Honor Society Scholarship Examinations.

Mr. McKim, a veteran of two World Wars retired in 1954 after more than thirty years of service in the Boston Public Schools. He was succeeded by John Joseph Doyle, '12, the present Head Master.

Of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence these had been pupils of this School:—

John Hancock, Massachusetts.

Samuel Adams, Massachusetts.

Benjamin Franklin, Pennsylvania.

Robert Treat Paine, Massachusetts.

William Hooper, North Carolina.

The Latin School boys who served in the Civil War are commemorated by Greenough's* statue in the lower corridor, representing Alma Mater crowning her heroes; those who died in the war are named on a shield which she is holding; those who returned are named on two marble tablets near by. A bronze tablet and portraits in the Hall and corridors still further honor some of these men.

Latin School's service in World War I is memorialized by a bronze tablet on either side of the main corridor. The tablet on the right has inscribed upon it the name of those Latin School boys who died in service. The tablet on the left is in honor of the four hundred and eighty alumni and undergraduates who enlisted in the army or the navy.

Portraits of Lieutenants Warren Eastman Robinson, Junior Master in the Latin School, and of many Latin School boys, who served and died in World War I, are in the lower corridor.

In the Library there is a de luxe edition of a book containing the names of all those Latin School boys who participated in World War I.

During the far-flung campaigns of the second World War ninety-eight Latin School boys in the various branches of the United States armed service laid down their lives.

The portraits of the following Head Masters, the property of the Boston Latin School Association, are in the Assembly Hall of the School:—
John Lovell: a copy of one by Smibert (the original of which is now in Memorial Hall, Harvard University).

Benjamin A Gould: artist unknown.

Charles K. Dillaway: by J. H. Young.

Joseph L. Powers: by C. B. Moulton.

A portrait of Charles J. Capen, a graduate of the School in 1840, and a teacher here from 1852 to 1910, is in the Library.

Tablets in the lower corridor and the Assembly Hall commemorate the lives of Ezekiel Cheever and of Moses Merrill.

The School has a carefully selected LIBRARY of about five thousand five hundred volumes, all belonging to the Latin School Association, except about one thousand volumes, which were purchased by the city. In the room of the Library are a number of large cork models of classic buildings, also busts and other sculptures, and plaster casts of ancient temples, together with pictures of classic monuments, portraits of distinguished graduates, and other pictures. There is, also, an interesting collection of relics and memorials of the old school. Room 301 has casts from the antique, the gifts of various classes. Room 201 has casts, pictures, etc., illustrating American History. It was fitted up by a graduate of the Latin School as a memorial to John W. Randall, a descendant of Samuel Adams.

Among the many efficient Head Masters of the Latin School these are worthy of note as having had a remarkably long connection with the School:—

THE SCHOOL BUILDING

As mentioned above, the first schools were held in the homes of the Masters. About 1645 the first schoolhouse, as such, was erected on the north side of School Street,* on the rear of the site now occupied by King's Chapel. Very little is known about the building, but from colonial records it is believed to have been of two stories. The schoolmaster had his home in the same building until 1702, when a separate house was built for Head Master Cheever.

In 1704, the schoolhouse was rebuilt. It stood at about the present location of the statue of Benjamin Franklin.** This building was used until 1748 when, due to an addition to King's Chapel, it had to be removed. A new schoolhouse was built on the south side of School Street, about where the end of the Parker House now stands. This building was repaired in 1785, and during the repairs Head Master Hunt taught the School in Faneuil Hall.

In 1812, a new building of three stories was constructed on the site of its predecessor. Ralph Waldo Emerson, who was in the School at that time, tells us that during the rebuilding period school was held in a barn near Haymarket Square, and afterwards in Scollay's building on Pemberton Hill.

Due to the rapid expansion of the city it was necessary to tear down the schoolhouse in 1844 to make room for the Horticultural House. At this time the school left the street to which it had given the name of "School Street," its home for two hundred years. The new schoolhouse was erected on Bedford Street, now the extension of Harrison Avenue. The school occupied one-half of this building, and the English High School the other half. In 1880, the growing numbers necessitated a new building, and accordingly, in 1881, the School was removed to Warren Avenue. English High School was still a neighbor, occupying the Montgomery Street side of the double building. This combined building was spoken of as "the largest structure in America devoted to educational purposes, and the largest in the world used as a free school."

After World War I the school building was found to be too small to accommodate the growth of both schools. In 1920, a new building was started on Avenue Louis Pasteur, in the Fenway, and the Latin School entered it in the fall of 1922, leaving English High School in possession of the old building.

The new building, of modern fireproof construction, proved inadequate for the School the very first year, and six extra classrooms were added at once. Even this addition proved insufficient, and for seven years the lower classes had to be housed in several annexes. In 1932-1933 the building was extended to about double its original size, and in the fall of 1933 the entire School was organized under one roof.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REGULATIONS OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE

LATIN SCHOOLS.

SECTION 189. 1. Pupils shall be admitted to Latin and day high schools only upon the presentation of an admission card signed by the superintendent. Admission cards shall be granted by the superintendent to graduates of the day elementary schools; to graduates of private day schools approved by the board of superintendents; to graduates of the evening elementary schools; to graduates of day elementary schools of cities and towns of Massachusetts approved by the board of superintendents; and to those who have successfully passed examinations authorized or given by the board of superintendents.

2. Pupils who have attended day high schools other than those of Boston, who present evidence of competency satisfactory to the respective principals and approved by the board of superintendents, may be granted admission cards signed by the superintendent, and be admitted to such standing in Latin and day high schools as their qualifications may warrant.

3. Pupils who have been promoted to the seventh or a higher grade of the day elementary schools, or of private day schools approved by the board of superintendents, and who present evidence of scholarship satisfactory to the board of superintendents, may be granted admission cards by the superintendent, and assigned to the classes in the Latin schools which they are qualified to enter.

4. Applicants for admission to the Latin schools must present a signed statement from their parents or guardians of intention to give them a collegiate education.

SECTION 190. Examinations of candidates for admission to Latin . . . schools shall be held annually by the Board of Superintendents . . . on the first Tuesday in June and on the day immediately preceding the reopening of schools in September.

AIM OF THE SCHOOL

The Latin School is open primarily to boys who intend to go to College and wish to be prepared in the Liberal Arts tradition.

ADMISSION TO THE SCHOOL

Boys are earnestly recommended to enter Class VI. and to take the full six years' course, and such boys are likely to be better prepared for College than if they remained at the Elementary School to graduate. Boys may enter Class VI. without examination if the mark in each of their four major subjects (i. e., English, Mathematics, History, and Geography) is B or better. Boys who fail to meet the above requirement must take examinations in the subjects in which they have failed to receive an A or B. If they pass these examinations, they will become regular members of Class VI.

Graduates of the Elementary Schools of Boston and of several other cities and towns, and boys who have completed the eighth grade of a Junior High School may enter Class IVB. without examination if the average of their four major subjects (i. e., English, Mathematics, History, and Geography) is B or better. Such boys constitute the so-called "B" sections. Boys who fail to obtain the above average must take examinations in the subjects in which they have failed to receive an A or a B. If they pass these examinations they will become regular members of Class IVB. All members of Class IVB., if of good abilities and of firm resolution, may graduate in four years.

Examinations for admission to Class VI. and Class IVB. are held at the schoolhouse on the first Tuesday of June and the day before the first school day of September.

DECLAMATION.

Almost from the earliest days Declamation has been a feature of the Latin School. Each boy may compete with other boys five times a year, before three teachers, for the privilege of speaking in the Public Declamations, which occur five times a year and are open to parents and friends. From the best of those appearing three times in Public Declamation twelve or more are selected for the Annual Prize Declamation in June, on the day of the awarding of school prizes. A combination of the school marks with the marks of judges selected from distinguished graduates of the school determines the award of prizes.
